Dear Fellow Rotarians,

Welcome back! It's been a very long weekend. We are filled with love. Thank you for giving us your time that we may see the world of travel in a different perspective for forefathers, family and friends, a day to remember our departed and the good Christians who have long been gone.

To mark this day, we have the honor and pleasure to have with us a great friend, a man of conviction, a man of great knowledge, a friend who is always there for anyone who needs his help. We thank him for the help he gave us in our endeavors in Marawi. Thank you for giving us your time that we may see the world of travel in a different perspective.

I also called on all members of the Rotary Club of Manila to step forward and help your club in its appointed leadership to The Rotary Foundation Gala Night celebration. Because of the tremendous success of our gala night in the centennial celebration, District Governor Liza Elorde has chosen our club and specifically, Vice President Hermie Esguerra, to lead this great event this year. This is truly a great honor. Let us all be there to support Hermie! Let us all be there to support our club. This will show the true colors of our club's perceived and real leadership in the Rotary movement. I call on every member to get a half page in our souvenir program for just Php 5,000 showing a greeting or a picture of their family or a short message just to show support to Hermie and our club. Please do this.

Your Chair, Jimmie, has lined up some very good speakers for upcoming meetings. We have on November 14, 2019, Department of Agriculture Secretary William Dar, courtesy of Raffy Alunan and on November 21, 2019, University of the Philippines President Atty. Danny Concepcion, compliments of our UP members. I recommend that I chair and the UP alumni in our club organize a great meeting for this day. Maybe we should also make the third Thursday of November, an annual UP PRESIDENT'S DAY. Then, on November 28, 2019, we will have Dr. Willy Ong. WOW!!!

Thank you once again, Jimmy Bautista! And one big ARRIBA!!!!

Best,

Jackie

US AMBASSADOR KIM BIDS FAREWELL

Saying goodbye seems the most difficult of realities we have in enduring the realities of life.

Most people find it hard to express words. But, not for a most gracious ambassador who has embraced the Filipino nation like his own. His Excellency Sung Kim, Ambassador of the United States of America to the Republic of the Philippines, was akin to a student graduating with highest honors as he opened with a statement on his new assignment bearing a nostalgic mood in uttering that he will miss his fellow Manila Rotarians, especially, the performances by the Rotary Club of Manila World Famous Chorale. Anchoring most of his brief talk on the gains of US-Philippine diplomatic and bilateral relations, he relished extending his hands in finding open doors of dialogues and building warm and cordial relations with the present administration and the US Companies' role in the "Build, Build, Build" initiatives. Assurances on best practices, honoring the bilateral defense treaty and upholding the recitals of the UNCLOS on the West Philippine Sea delighted the engaged audience on hand. Mild mannered and congenial to say the least, undoubtedly, Ambassador Kim has endeared himself to a country whose history is closely intertwined with that Great American heritage that has left countries around the world in awe.

AFRICAN SWINE FEVER

Elias D. Adamos, M.D.

Sometime in August 2019, the Department of Agriculture started to probe the reported incidents of hog deaths in piggery farms in Rizal and Bulacan. Suspecting African swine fever (ASF) as the cause, the department ordered the culling of pigs within one-kilometer radius of affected farms. Recently, authorities notified, if not castigated, a process meat company in Pampanga for selling ASF-contaminated processed pork meat product.

What is ASF?

ASF affects domestic pigs, including those that are grown in piggeries or farms for human consumption. The causative agent in ASF is a virus that can cause high mortality rates in domestic pigs secondary to hemorrhage. The virus is harbored by a soft tick, Argasidae, that attaches to the under-part body of pigs, thus making it not readily visible. The tick carrying the virus is prevalent in Southeast Asia, including the Philippines. The Philippines is one of the tick-laden countries identified by the World Health Organization.

Does ASF affect humans?

No. Humans are not affected by ASF. However the consumption of contaminated pork that is not properly cooked might result to ingestion of bacteria, virus and other agents that are harmful to humans. Skillful businessmen-farmers might also resort to selling pork meat coming from pigs that previously or earlier died from ASF – "double-dead." Ingestion of double-dead meat can similarly affect health.

If ASF does not affect humans, why is there a need for vigilance against the disease?

Two scenarios can happen once a person ingests contaminated pork or processed pork product with ASF; enough for us to think of the importance of avoidance:

1. When ingested, the virus can stay inside the human body and the human harboring the virus can act as carrier of the virus thus adding up to the further spread of the infection.
2. Viruses are known for their variability. They can mutate and transform to another form, thus it is just logical to think that in a few decades, the mutation or transformation of the virus might soon infect humans. The medical journal Lancet even reported the further investigation of a missing link between ASF and AIDS. Therefore we should always be on the guard because virus variability can result to ASF plague in humans.

Prevention

1. Never eat "kilaw" or raw meat.
2. Buy only from highly-regarded meat shops.
3. Cook pork meat thoroughly.
4. Heat and cook processed pork meat and canned pork meat.

But in banking, Bartolome proved unstoppable. He got the biggest break in his life when he was head of Bancom Development Corp.'s money market department in 1968.

His stint with Bancom opened still more doors. He moved up to Citibank where he eventually became head of Treasury group. Then it was off to Multinational Investment Bancorporation in 1973 where he was general manager.

He also became treasurer and senior vice president of Rizal Commercial Banking Corp., and in the ensuing period emerged as president of the Money Market Association of the Philippines in 1978. Two years later, Bartolome was among the 10 Outstanding Young Men (TOYM) in the field of development banking.

"In 1980, I said to myself, if I can manage banks, I might as well put up my own bank. That's Urban Bank. It was a very small bank, humble beginnings, capital of P20 million, single office, manpower complement of ten," Bartolome said.

"And then after almost 20 years of Urban Bank it became a universal bank with a total capital of almost P2 billion and manpower complement of 600. But the unfortunate political reality, we were closed."

Bartolome's portfolio goes beyond banking. In 1992, under the presidency of fellow Manila Rotarian Fidel V. Ramos, he was unexpectedly appointed Chairman, President, and Chief Executive Officer of the Bases Conversion and Development Authority or BCDA. Its first such official.

He loved his job at BCDA but this was cut short when he was again called by then President Ramos to take the helm of the Philippine National Bank (PNB). He replaced Gabriel Singson who was appointed first Governor of the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas.

He fondly recalled, "When President Ramos asked me to move to PNB, I said, 'Sir, if given a choice I would like to stay at BCDA because I've been in banking for some time and moving to PNB, I'm back to where I was.'"

"The next question of the president was, 'Oh, what's interesting about BCDA?' I said, 'Sir, number one, I'm putting up Heritage Memorial Park. Never in my whole life have I been involved in developing a memorial park. Number two, I'm removing all the lahar at the Clark airport (to) put the airport in working condition. Very interesting job. Number three, I'm fixing up a golf course at Camp John Hay. My learning curve was very high.'" Bartolome took a much-needed break when Urban Bank closed in 2000. He held several consultancy and advisory engagements.

Eventually, he found himself dabbling in his true passion, architecture. He established Amber Properties, which he admits has given him a "playground" for his creativity. The company currently has 120 apartment and office units, the majority of which are residential buildings.

The impact he made and his contribution to the industry he delved in has not gone unnoticed. In 1996, he was voted the University of the East's most outstanding alumni. He was likewise voted one of Outstanding Manilan in 1999.

He was also president of several organizations, including the Financial Executives Institute of the Philippines (1980), the Rotary Club of Manila (1988), and the Management Association of the Philippines (1999).

Bartolome currently serves as chairman of publicly listed I-Remit, the largest Filipino-owned non-bank remittance service provider. It offers a wide array of services to Overseas Filipino Workers and other migrant workers. Playing golf, doting on his wife, his four children and 12 grand-children, as well as catering to the nitty-gritty of tenant demands now take a large portion of his time. Still, he admits that leaps in the financial services sector is something that interests him greatly. He said the Philippines even now is still catching up with its neighbors in terms of financial inclusion.

Maverick Tondo boy

He loved his job at BCDA but this was cut short when he was again called by then President Ramos to take the helm of the PNB.

At 78, Arsenio "Archit" M. Bartolome remains fit and he still keeps himself busy at his office in Amber Place in Taguig. Despite the hectic schedule he follows, however, he never misses a good game.

The "good game" may refer to his pastime, which is golf. Or he may have been referring to that other sport he excelled in, basketball.

The "good game" could also well describe his storied career in the banking and finance industry.

Born in Tondo on 30 June 1941, Bartolome grew up in that part of historically rich Manila. It was then a place that infuses a sense of adventure and wonder in any child.

The Manila he remembers in his childhood days was simpler and the place much easier to get around. He would often play basketball at the Rizal Memorial Coliseum along Vito Cruz.

Getting to the venue was always an adventure in itself as he marvels at the architectural landmarks that make the city so cosmopolitan. He relishes these simple pleasures although his family had been hard hit financially as consequence of the second World War.

Still, Bartolome graduated among the top of his class in Torres High School. By 1957 he enrolled at the University of the Philippines in Diliman where he played for the UP-Varsity basketball team. He also became a fellow of the Upsilon Sigma Phi.

However, good fortune offered him a different path. He earned a Business Administration degree from another institution, the University of the East in Manila, where he further honed his basketball skills.

"The idea there was just to finish my college, and since all my good friends were taking up business, I said I might as well take up business. But it was not influenced by my parents, siblings.

During those days we were happy-go-lucky. Whatever is the flow, you just follow it. (But) my interest was really in architecture," he says.

It was basketball, too, that fated him in the productive and no-nonsense world of banking where he rose to prominence. He became a player for Bank of America's basketball team at his accountant sister's urging. This was an opportunity that opened another door as he toiled as messenger for the bank to earn extra cash. He was eventually promoted supervisor and stayed with the bank for five years.

It was at the Bank of America where he met his wife, Maria Rosario "Nenne" Hernandez Reyes, too.

But getting married and raising a family wasn't as easy as it seemed. Thus, Bartolome decided it was time to widen his horizons. In 1969 Bartolome, and a co-worker, Mario Sayoc, traveled to the United States in search of greener pastures. They brought with them some $1,000 in pocket money, their undying sense of adventure, and a desire to succeed in their chosen careers.

Wells Fargo Bank, San Francisco took him in, where he further built up his professional profile. But in this same period of bulging opportunities, tragedy struck with the death of their first son, Arsenio Emmanuel Reyes Bartolome, in 1967.

President Joaquin C. Rodriguez, Rotary Club of Manila

Dear President Joaquin,

The Golden Jubilee Fund Raising Ball of Rotary Club of Kowloon East

Members of the Rotary Club of Kowloon East take pride in seeing our club reaching the half-a-century milestone this year. Our cheers and joys would be escalated highly at our Golden Jubilee Fund Raising Ball to be held on the evening of Monday 16th December 2019 at the InterContinental Hong Kong, 18 Salisbury Road, Kowloon. On behalf of the Club President Mr. YIU Ching-on, may I cordially invite your goodself and Rotarians of your prestigious club to join us and add colours for our celebration.

In the light of the current unrest incidences, while we hold high hope for an improving situation, we would err of the side of being caution by focusing our effort in hosting the ball without staging a welcome dinner for our visiting guests from overseas sister clubs like you. Instead, we are prepared to invite the members of your visiting delegation to a farewell meal on the day following the ball. More information about this would be given in due course.

We would be grateful for your advice on the participants of the ball from your club as soon as possible. In addition, may we also have your congratulatory message, with your photograph, for the purpose of compiling the ball programme booklet by 16th November 2019 please. It would be our honour if you would continue to render your great support as before.

Yours in Rotary,
