KABALITA

A glorious past begets a heritage of which members, past and present, can truly call their own. More than a hundred years in Service Above Self is a treasure which only the stewards of Asia's First Rotary Club can genuinely attest. Let our distinguished Past District Governor bring us back in time through stories that would inspire the future generation of Manila Rotarians.

PRESIDENT'S CORNER

Greetings my RCM Brothers,

It is in times of crisis that one realizes how precious a brotherhood such as ours truly is.

As many of you know, last weekend, our Director and Immediate Past Vice President Thad Liamzon figured in a vehicular accident that ended up with him being rushed to a hospital in Quezon City.

Accordingly, there was a certain Corporal Arevalo who was in possession of his mobile phone and made a series of calls to the contact list in his phone. My instinct was to call and verify the situation. After the hospital confirmed that our patient was indeed in the ER, I contacted Roma, Thad's wife, who was already on the way to the hospital.

What transpired after that was a flurry of a handful of our members who kicked into action to give him the best medical attention possible. His stroke was the main concern of everyone. I called the secretary of Ekie Gonzales (son of our late fellow Manila Rtn. Ambassador Ralf Gonzales) of Medical City to coordinate the expediting of his admission in the Neuro-ICU unit.

Very tense moments followed after that. There was a prayer meeting with Fr. Alex Balatbat which PE/PVP Hermie Esguerra graciously arranged via Zoom. At some point, we were apprised that the procedure that was done for Thad was a great success. I enjoin one and all to continue praying for Thad. May Almighty God grant him full recovery from this episode and bring him back as good as new. We need to hear that operatic voice of his again.

Today, we have the opportunity to hear our very own Past District Governor Vince Carlos who will be sharing his learnings and golden nuggets of wisdom during those glorious years of the Rotary Club of Manila which happened to occur during his presidency. I am excited to learn from this magnificent friend and colleague.

God bless us all.

Humbly yours in Rotary,

FSZ

Felix Francisco S. Zaldarriaga
President

CLUB ADMINISTRATION

From the Programs Committee

Dear Fellow Manila Rotarians,

In our continuing desire to innovate our programs, your Programs Committee has seen it fit to bring the heritage of our sterling past to fore through honoring the strides of our club's past leaders, bridging a glorious past to a promising future and with the influx of many new Manila Rotarians, especially our STAR Rotarians, into our fold, exposing them to the club culture we have built over the years is of the essence. Hence, we are introducing a new segment in our program as we launch the PAST PRESIDENT'S TIME with no less than PDG VINCE CARLOS as our inaugural speaker. Get to know the Rotary Club of Manila down memory lane as we reminisce our club's achievements and bring a blissful yesterday back to life.

Let this be a nostalgic moment as we get ready, today, 12:30 PM, September 30!

Very truly yours,

PE/PVP HERMINIO "HERMIE" S. ESGUERRA
Programs Committee Chairman

THE ROTARY FOUNDATION

Appeal for Paul Harris Fellows

July 1, 2021

Dear Fellow Rotarians,

An Opportunity has now opened doors for our club to be a 100% Paul Harris Club. With only US$ 500.00 as a beginning contribution, you can now become a Paul Harris Fellow.

We have members who have risen to donor levels that have earned them significant point values. Our fellow members led by IPP Jackie Rodriguez, PDG Alex Cureg, PVP Hermie Esguerra, PDG Rudy Bediones and PDG Obet Pagdanganan have indicated their willingness to share the points they have earned to allow Rotarians to be enrolled in the Roster of Paul Harris Fellows for only an initial contribution of US$ 500.00 instead of the regular US$ 1,000.00.

Contributions can easily be made by enrolling in www.rotary.org using your R.I. Identification Number. Once enrolled, you are allowed to learn Rotary, increase your circle of friendship and contribute conveniently using the website.

We, Rotarians, belong to a global family of service-oriented people who believe that our congregation is a means to share our blessings to the less fortunate communities globally. The Rotary Foundation is the funding arm of global humanitarian undertakings of Rotary International. It was formally named in 1917 and the first trustees were appointed after Rotary International President Arch Klumph proposed for the establishment of an endowment for the purpose of doing good in the world. The first grant of US$ 500 benefitted the International Society for Crippled Children (Easter Seals). History marks the milestone projects of The Rotary Foundation such a scholarship for international graduate study, the elimination of Polio worldwide, the initiation of a World Peace Forum, among others. Under the Rotary's 7 Areas of Service Focus, namely, Peace and Conflict Prevention/Resolution, Disease Prevention and Treatment, Water and Sanitation, Maternal and Child Health, Basic Education and Literacy, Economic and Community Development and lastly, Supporting the Environment, Rotary International and The Rotary Foundation have made themselves relevant to developing communities globally.

All these services would not have been made possible if not for the generosity of Rotarians, who voluntarily enlisted themselves to become members of The Rotary Foundation through a minimal contribution of US$ 1,000.00.

We are currently working on Global Grants and District Grants. Your contribution will significantly improve the community living of our target beneficiaries.

For any assistance, please feel free to contact me.

Yours in the service of Rotary,

STAR Rtn. Ronald Martinez: The Analytics and IT Guy Who Makes a Big Difference in the Business World

By Rhea Vitto Tabora

Business analytics is changing the way the companies work and thrive. Many businesses integrate new technologies to record, monitor and utilize data to improve processes, streamline operations, increase efficiency, personalize marketing and identify new business opportunities, among other benefits.

Meet STAR Rtn. Ronald Martinez, an expert in analyzing data trends, delivering data-driven recommendations and introducing change to businesses.

In this interview, STAR Rtn. Ronald shares the nature of his job, the most rewarding as well as the most challenging part of it.

Read on and find out how this 'agent of change' is bridging the gap between management and technology, and how he is making a difference by providing actionable recommendations to executives and stakeholders to improve businesses.

On a lighter note, find out his interests and hobbies, and what he did when he appeared on national television.

MANILA ROTARIAN IN FOCUS

STAR Rtn. Ronald Martinez: The Analytics and IT Guy Who Makes a Big Difference in the Business World

Rhea Vitto Tabora (RVT): Business analytics and IT systems – what drew you to these fields?

STAR Rtn. Ronald Martinez (RM): Being in analytics and IT, I think, was the result of what was going on back in the 90s. I ventured into IT just after the dot.com bubble burst in 2000, not because this idea failed, but because of what was technically accomplished and the potential disruption it could enable in the future.

The infancy stage of the internet was the world of my youth. At that time, I was curious to understand how business and tech could intersect, so joining P&G was a fortunate first step for me to see how a business institution of its size and class would apply all these emerging technologies.

In hindsight, luck and timing were also on my side as my personal situation and what roles were available at that time aligned perfectly.

RVT: What is the most rewarding part about your job?

RM: The most rewarding part about this job is when new insights and learnings uncovered through our work is understood and actioned by the business. When we elicit 'Aha's' from a group or see things done differently because of a new learning, then we are able to add value. So, when we do get it right, an organization can improve its capacity, reliability, and effectiveness and can impact results in a larger, more sustainable, and more meaningful way.

RVT: How about the most challenging?

RM: The most challenging part of this job is changing minds and winning hearts. Analytics is still a black box to many and there are still countless businesses out there today who still operate based on gut, political agenda, or anecdotal information. Culture is a key challenge and shifting it is the most critical pre-step towards fully maximizing and unleashing the opportunities analytics can help enable.

RVT: What was the most interesting project you have worked on? What was the most innovative recommendation you have presented to your upper management?

RM: I'd say the most interesting project I've worked on (as well as the most innovative one) was setting up Gillette's big data analytics capability.

When I was leading analytics for Gillette in Boston back in 2017, we had mounting pressure from tech start-ups disrupting our business and aggressively taking valuable market share (i.e., Dollar Shave Club, Harry's, Amazon Basic), learning about the competition where they were winning, and with which consumers were critical pieces of information, we needed to build the most cost effective and penetrating competitive response action plan.

To meet the challenge, our big data solution was set up utilizing millions of data points across dozens of data sources to help paint the North American eCommerce competitive landscape. Anonymized and syndicated data on everything from news/magazine circulation routes, retail store outlets POS data, ethnographic and psychographic information, emailed receipt mining/data scraping, and government census data, to name a few, were consolidated to a point where we could triangulate competitive information enough to know where to drop samples, which stores to promote, and which areas and type of copy to run advertisements in. This level of precision and set of insights, in the hands of data-driven leaders, allowed us to maximize investment ROI and effectiveness of our programs.

STAR Rtn. Ronald Martinez: The Analytics and IT Guy Who Makes a Big Difference in the Business World

RVT: What are your favorite and least favorite technology products, and why?

RM: My favorite tech product is also my least favorite, a love hate relationship that many can relate to. It would come as no surprise that product would be the smart phone (since 2007, the year the first iPhone came out).

It has disrupted the way we go about our lives and has connected us in ways never seen throughout humanity's history. It has given us countless applications that have made us more productive and effective, at work or leisure. All the world's information were at our fingertips.

On the flipside, I've given up my privacy to use it and kept myself connected to work 24/7 – you win some and you lose some, I guess!

RVT: What do you think would you be doing if you weren't at your current profession?

RM: Throughout my childhood, something was always being built around me – a home, an office, or any of the countless renovations done to it. I was fascinated by architecture and interior design and thought for quite sometime that I'd be doing this.

I thought the history, art and technical skill involved in building design was beautiful and interesting!

RVT: What are your interests and hobbies? What do you do when you are not at work?

RM: I love anything outdoors. I love hiking or skiing when out in the mountains, and I love scuba diving and surfing when I'm out on the water. These pandemic days, however, I enjoy playing golf instead, given the limited options.

When indoors, I love to try cooking different recipes I find interesting on YouTube, listening to my records and playing video games.

RVT: What are you passionate about?

RM: Apart from my craft, I'm also passionate about people – understanding, coaching, and helping them grow. I believe developing others also allows us to learn just as much about ourselves as we go through the process.

Beginning in 2020, I've also developed a passion for health and fitness – putting in the time and discipline to reverse decades of abuse I've put my mind and body through.

RVT: Please share something about yourself that your fellow Rotarians might not readily know.

RM: I've danced on live national television. It was a great demonstration of the talent or credentials I did NOT have. Why did I get on the show you might ask? You can say I did it for love. My wife was a part of this dance group and they needed back up – the rest is history.

RVT: What inspired you to join the Rotary Club of Manila?

RM: PDSA Jason Bogovich invited me to one of its RCM membership meetings sometime early 2018, shortly after I had just moved back to the Philippines. And then again, I was invited to one of its Oktoberfest socials, the year after. Sitting through the program and meeting the various members throughout those two occasions, I particularly noticed the unique culture of the group – a culture founded on mutual respect and a shared passion for giving back to the community in meaningful ways.

part of the solution and being among like-minded friends would be a knockout combination!*

RI President-elect Jennifer Jones announces Rotary's $97 million pledge for sustainable projects during Global Citizen Live

The star-studded global event rallied people to take action on some of the world's most urgent problems

by Ryan Hyland

Rotary International President-elect Jennifer Jones took the stage at the Global Citizen Live concert on 25 September in Paris, France, and pledged $97 million in grant funding from the organization next year for sustainable, Rotary club-led projects.

Global Citizen Live, a 24-hour broadcast with events and performances across six continents, aimed to unite people to take action to defend the planet, end the COVID-19 pandemic, defeat poverty, provide education for all children, and promote equity and justice for all. Some of the world's top artists, celebrities, activists, and government leaders participated in this year's event to raise awareness and support in cities including Paris; Lagos, Nigeria; London, UK; Los Angeles, USA; New York City, USA; Rio de Janeiro, Brazil; Seoul, Korea; and Sydney, Australia.

In Paris, where Jones pledged Rotary's support, thousands of people gathered at the iconic Champ de Mars near the Eiffel Tower to see performances from Elton John, Ed Sheeran, Black Eyed Peas, Christine and the Queens, Doja Cat, Angélique Kidjo, and more. Other leaders pledging support included European Commission President Ursula von der Leyen, French President Emmanuel Macron, and Paris Mayor Anne Hidalgo.

ROTARY INFORMATION

"Every day millions of girls walk miles to fetch clean water, and millions of boys are on the streets instead of going to school. Every day moms and dads struggle to find ways to feed their children," Jones said from the main stage in Paris. "And every day, members of Rotary and Global Citizen start our days knowing that we can make a difference."

"This year we're putting a special focus on empowering girls worldwide, opening doors for young women to build brighter futures," Jones said. "Today Rotary is committed to helping end poverty globally and protecting the planet by pledging $97 million in grant funding during 2022 for sustainable, member-led projects."

She added: "We stand together with Global Citizen as people of purpose, people of action."

Rotary has worked with Global Citizen for a more than decade, primarily regarding the effort to eradicate polio worldwide. At the 2012 Global Citizen event in New York City, Rotary General Secretary John Hewko and celebrity ambassador Archie Panjabi announced Rotary's $75 million commitment to polio eradication. Rotary and Global Citizen have also connected at Rotary International Conventions, the Commonwealth Heads of Governments Meetings, polio advocacy events, and polio funding announcements.

In total, more than $1.1 billion in commitments, 157 million trees to be planted, and 60 million doses of COVID-19 vaccines to be donated to developing countries were announced in conjunction with the 25 September event.

HIS FATHER'S SON. Philippine politics has a paradoxical way of being modest with its gifts and blunt with its reckonings. Good news comes like a breeze you feel but don't notice; it is the source of wonderful promises and the cause of big disappointments. It is not simply the purveyor of hope but likewise the cause of despair. It is the jumping board of gross graft and corrupt practices instead of a response to the call of what is right, proper, and just.

Scholars can endlessly debate whether the Marcos Years were the most muscular expression of national interest in the last half-century or have been the country's darkest period that left a torn nation still struggling for economic and political recovery. Whichever side of the political divide one may espouse, the incontrovertible truth lies in the fact that the Marcos legacy, woven deep into Filipino society, has had an indelible imprint into Filipino society that will likely last generations.

The most telling manifestation of Marcos' specter lies in the persona of his progeny, the controversial FERDINAND "BONGBONG" MARCOS JR. When the elder Marcos was still in power, few believed that his son would amount to anything much without his father and namesake. Yet, almost 30 years on, Bongbong Marcos is now a senator, and he has made the biggest – albeit unsuccessful – step in what has been a remarkable political comeback by running for Vice-President in the 2016 national elections. Recently, he has announced his bid to secure the coveted presidential slot in 2022. Throughout these past few years, he has done it without his father, who died in 1989, by his side.

I was formally introduced to Senator Bongbong during a speaking engagement at a jam-packed crowd during the Anvil Business Club's penultimate forum way back in 2015, when I served as Club President. Senator Marcos laid out his wish for the country in a sweeping tone reminiscent of his father's self-assured bluster. "In simple terms, my vision of our country is one that can overcome its economic and social challenges by drawing on our own strengths and drawing on our unity," he began. "It is a vision of the Philippines that is prosperous, rich in opportunity, home to happy, morally upright, and productive citizens whose lives are meaningful because theirs is a just society, because theirs is a nation that has become great again."

Working towards making this dream a fruition, however, would not be easy, he added. "It is... a task so daunting," he opined, "that it has continually remained a puzzling mystery and has challenged even the great leaders of our history... 26% of the Filipino people are poor, while 11% of Filipinos live in extreme poverty. And further compounding our problem is the grave inequality that pervades in our society now." With an unemployment rate of 6.6% – a figure that translates to 3 million able-bodied Filipinos who are without jobs – and a 17% underemployment figure, Senator Marcos concluded that the perceived lack of sufficient local opportunities "precisely and singularly explains the phenomenon of why more than 5,000 Filipinos leave the country EVERY SINGLE DAY to become OFWs."

Turning to the members of the Anvil Business Club, the Vice-Presidential aspirant admonished the young entrepreneurs and professionals to "take the lead in nation-building, from boosting the economy, via genuine poverty alleviation, to attaining a just and equitable society – all in conscious pursuit of what is called an 'inclusive growth' of our economy." He enumerated a few key important mechanisms within the framework of business that entrepreneurs can help in achieving these goals: tax payments, delivery of basic services to the people, job creation and maintenance.

In this regard, he encouraged businessmen to:

1. Contribute their fair and accurate share in the revenue collection of government;
2. Continue generating local employment opportunities for Filipinos, while upholding the value and dignity of the Filipino human capital, as an indispensable component of any commercial endeavor; and,
3. Provide basic services that are safe, high-quality and affordable, and that ultimately improve the lives and the conditions of living of the people, particularly betting on the country's agricultural potential, as part of their innovative and diverse entrepreneurial vision.

Eloquent, accommodating, and almost candid to a fault, Senator Marcos readily answered questions thrown to him from the audience, ranging from the serious – such as the issues surrounding the crafting of a more constitutionally-sound alternative to the Bangsamoro Basic Law; to the mundane – such as whether or not he has a half-sister, who is now the lead bet to become the country's next president.

To be sure, Senator Marcos has found a rapidly growing number of adherents to his cause; a large segment of which comes from the "millennial" age demographic – roughly those who were not yet born when their family already left for Honolulu in exile.

As his surname continues to strike a contentious chord in a nation still in dispute over its true legacy in history, it remains to be seen if his political journey – eerily similar as his father – would be successful. Nevertheless, his 31-year sterling track record in public service – first as a two-term Congressman (just a year after returning from exile in 1991), where he wrote a total of 32 house bills and co-authored 111 more; then as governor where he transformed Ilocos Norte from a sleepy, tobacco-dependent agricultural province into a bustling commercial hub, and steered the nation's biggest wind energy project; and now, as Senator, where he proved to be a prolific legislator, having authored 52 bills and co-authored 4, with one enacted into law in the 16th Congress alone – has indubitably pushed forward an image of an eminent contender and a fastidious administrator. Truth be told, every other vice-presidential candidate will be hard pressed to match his performance in terms of sheer legislative output and acumen, experience in local governance, and scope and breadth of governance platform.

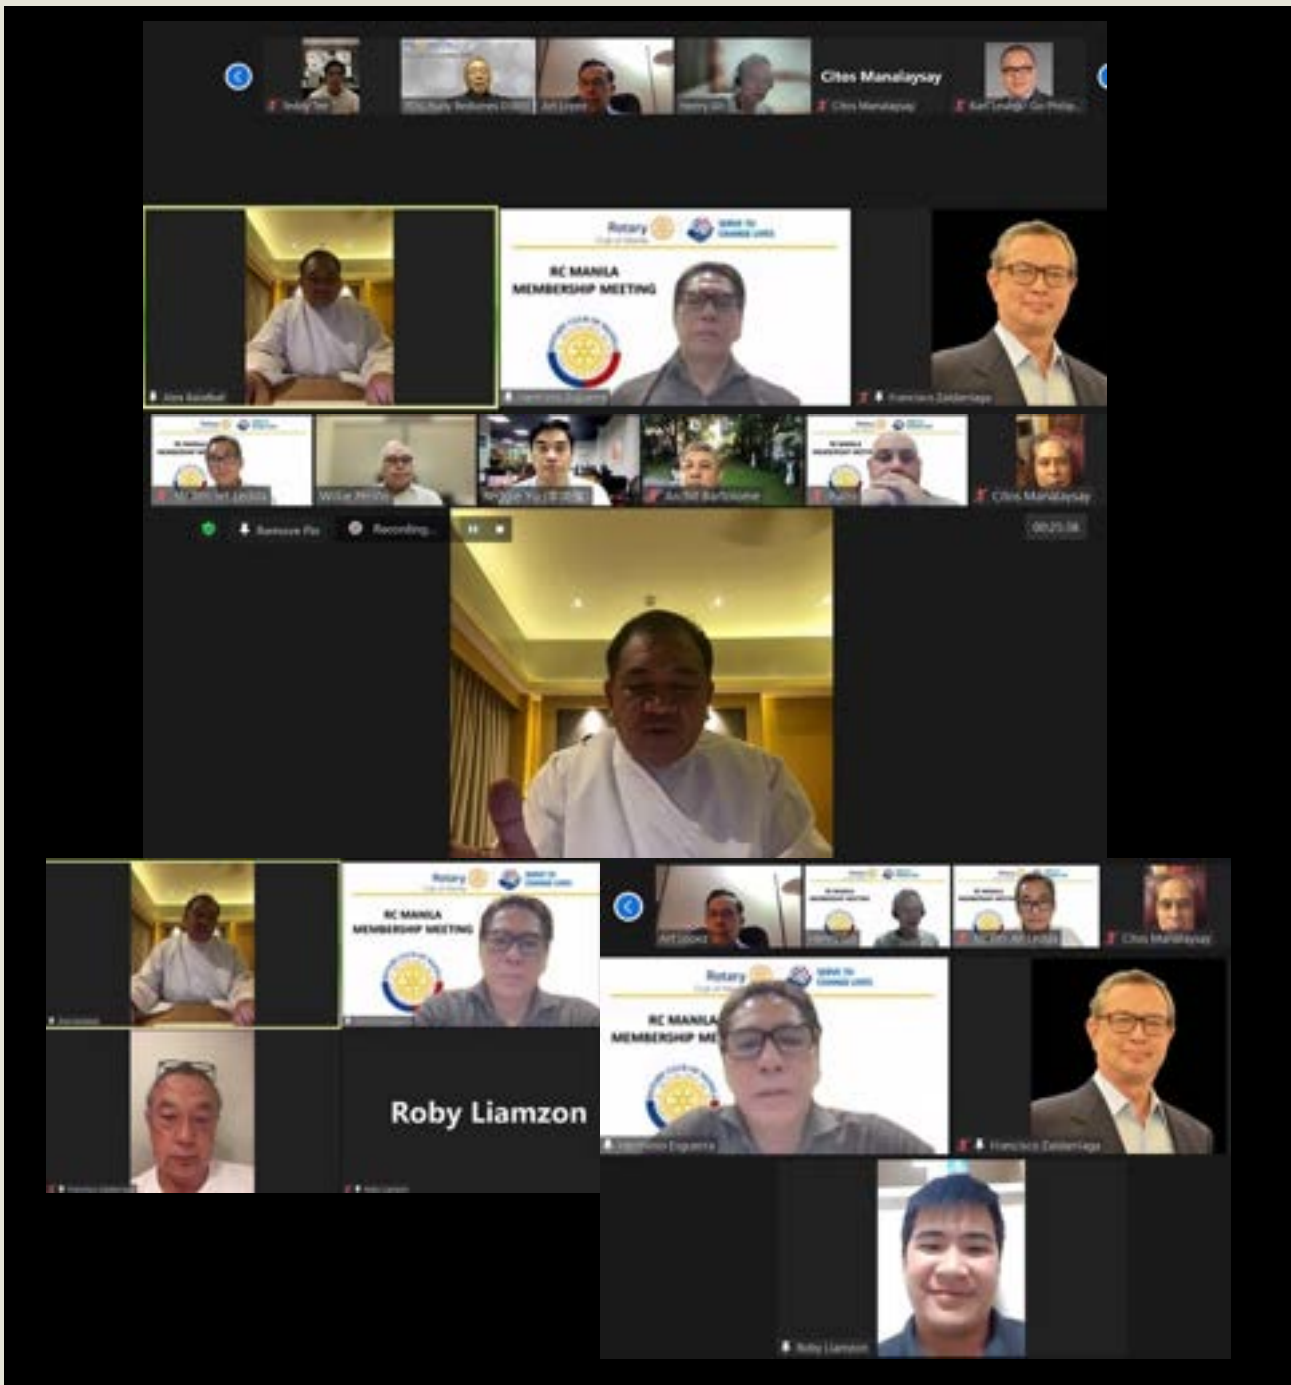

But, for many, credentials do not matter as much as his name, which nips at his heels wherever he goes. "My father cast a very, very big shadow, and it is inevitable that I'll be under that shadow," he assented.

Whether or not this election will actually yield a mandate for his policies, he is sure to claim one for his style, because he stuck to it against all odds, much advice and the lessons of history. With his familiar comportment that evening, Senator Bongbong Marcos has proved to all and sundry that he is, indeed, his father's son.
