IN any democratic society, law enforcement plays a crucial role in maintaining peace, order, and security. It is a force that stands between stability and chaos, ensuring that the rights of citizens are upheld while deterring those who seek to disrupt the social fabric. As the Philippines prepares for its upcoming midterm elections, the role of the Philippine National Police (PNP) takes on even greater significance. Beyond routine policing, it is tasked with protecting the integrity of the electoral process, safeguarding public trust, and adapting to the rapidly evolving security landscape.

But what does effective law enforcement look like in today's world? The answer is no longer as simple as a strong police presence or a well-executed crime suppression strategy. The reality is far more complex—requiring a balance between authority and accountability, force and fairness, tradition and innovation.

Historically, law enforcement agencies have been defined by their ability to combat crime and maintain public order. However, modern security challenges have forced them to evolve. Crime itself has changed in nature, with cybercrime, online scams, and transnational syndicates operating with greater sophistication than ever before. Traditional policing methods, while still necessary, are no longer sufficient on their own.

Public perception of the police has also shifted. In an age where information is instant and transparency is demanded, public trust in law enforcement is no longer assumed—it must be earned. Reports of abuse, corruption, or inefficiency can spread rapidly, often with real consequences for police-community relations. The PNP, like other law enforcement bodies worldwide, faces the challenge of proving that it is not only capable but also committed to justice, fairness, and respect for human rights.

With the 2025 midterm elections fast approaching, the role of the PNP is magnified. Elections are not merely political exercises; they are critical moments in a nation's democratic journey. Ensuring their credibility requires vigilance against fraud, coercion, and violence—threats that have historically plagued Philippine elections.

The PNP's mandate is clear: to ensure that the electoral process is free, fair, and untainted by intimidation. Yet, this is easier said than done. Political rivalries often turn violent, and law enforcement officers must navigate the difficult terrain of neutrality, ensuring that they are not seen as instruments of any political faction. The challenge is not just to maintain peace, but to do so in a way that reinforces the public's confidence in democracy itself.

To meet the demands of contemporary law enforcement, the PNP has been undergoing various reforms aimed at modernization and professionalization. Technology is playing an increasing role in crime prevention and investigation. Body cameras, digital case management, and data-driven policing are slowly transforming the way officers perform their duties. The challenge, however, is ensuring that these innovations are implemented effectively and ethically.

Training and education are equally critical. A modern police force is not just well-equipped—it is well-trained, disciplined, and guided by principles of service rather than brute force.

Community engagement is now recognized as an essential policing strategy, emphasizing the need for police officers to work in collaboration with the communities they serve rather than merely enforcing laws from a position of detachment.

The Philippine National Police is at a crossroads. As the nation moves forward, it must continue to transform—not just in its strategies, but in its very identity. A strong police force is not one that rules through fear, but one that earns respect through competence, integrity, and service.

The conversations surrounding law enforcement should not be limited to the police themselves. Citizens, policymakers, and the broader civil society all have a role to play in shaping a security force that is both effective and accountable. There must be open dialogues about police reform, institutional integrity, and the evolving nature of security threats.

Ultimately, the question is not just about what kind of police force the Philippines needs today, but what kind of police force will serve the nation best in the years to come. Law enforcement does not operate in a vacuum—it is a reflection of the society it serves. Strengthening the police is not just about equipping them with better weapons or increasing their numbers; it is about ensuring they are guided by the highest standards of professionalism, ethics, and public trust.

As discussions on public safety and law enforcement continue, one thing remains clear: a safe and just society is not merely the responsibility of those in uniform, but of every citizen committed to democracy, security, and national progress.

A Meeting of Service and Storytelling

by PVP Reginald T. Yu

IN a world brimming with fleeting moments, few traditions stand the test of time. The Rotary Club of Manila, the oldest Rotary Club in Asia, is one such enduring institution—one that gathers not merely to discuss, but to inspire, to build, and to serve.

On the afternoon of March 13, 2025, members of this storied organization convened for their 25th Weekly Membership Meeting of the Rotary Year, held at the Manila Polo Club. It was an affair steeped in tradition and camaraderie, where the rhythms of fellowship blended seamlessly with the echoes of purpose.

At precisely 12:30 PM, President Eduardo “Jujut” Enriquez III called the assembly to order, setting in motion an afternoon of discourse and enlightenment. Past Director Dr. John Cutter, DMD, guided the proceedings with the precision of a seasoned moderator.

The gathering opened with an invocation by Rotarian John Nico P. Valencia—a moment of quiet reverence before the day’s engagements. The Philippine National Anthem followed, its solemn strains a reminder of duty, while the Manila Rotary Hymn, performed by the RCM World Famous Music Chorale, elevated the atmosphere with a sense of belonging.

Rtn. John Nico P. Valencia led the invocation

DSAA John Michael Cutter moderated the meeting.

Treasurer Michael “Mike” D. Roxas then led the recitation of The Four-Way Test, the timeless ethical compass that guides every Rotarian's actions. As guests were acknowledged and welcomed, the hall warmed with the energy of familiar faces and new acquaintances, bound together by a shared mission.

President Jujut Enriquez called the meeting to order.

Treas. Michael “Mike” D. Roxas led the recitation of The Four-Way Test

Pres. Jujut Enriquez received the Achievement Award on behalf of RCM for ranking Top 1 in the Annual Fund Program ABSOLUTE with a total contribution of $27,140.00 for the month of February. The award was presented by DG Joaquin "Jackie" Rodriguez, Sr. and witnessed by PDG Alex C. Cureg.

Pres. Jujut Enriquez acknowledged Rtn. Nathaniel "Nate" Camat for his $1,000.00 contribution to Paul Harris.

Pres. Jujut conducted the traditional exchange of bannerettes with PP Geoffrey Little, a member of the sister Rotary Club of Sydney D9675.

SAA Jason M. Bogovich introduced the guest of honor and speaker.

The Power of Storytelling: A Guest Speaker Who Inspires

The true highlight of the afternoon came with the introduction of the Guest of Honor and Speaker—Mr. Ajit Sharma. A global TEDx Ambassador, a consultant for the Asian Development Bank, and a speaker coach for TED Talks, Sharma is a man who has dedicated his career to the art of storytelling.

As he took the stage, his words wove a narrative that was both deeply personal and universally resonant. He spoke not just of his journey—from an enthusiastic young volunteer at TED’s first conference in India to a coach shaping the world’s most influential storytellers—but of the power of narrative itself.

With anecdotes drawn from his encounters with world leaders, business moguls, and grassroots visionaries, Sharma underscored a profound truth: the most compelling ideas do not simply inform—they inspire, they ignite, they move people to action.

He recounted an experiment conducted at Harvard, where children who had watched a Disney film displayed identical brain patterns to those who merely heard the story secondhand. The implication was clear: storytelling transcends mere words; it is an act of shared experience, a bridge between minds.

In a world overflowing with data, Sharma argued, facts alone are insufficient. It is stories that build legacies, that create movements, that turn vision into reality. Whether in business, governance, or philanthropy, the ability to craft a narrative determines influence.

His insights resonated deeply within the Rotary Club of Manila, a community that has long understood the weight of words when backed by action. For decades, the club has championed causes not just with statistics, but with human stories—of lives changed, of communities uplifted, of service that endures.

Mr. Ajit Sharma engaged in an interactive conversation with

PP Chito Zaldarriaga, Rtn. Paco Magsaysay, SAA Jason Bogovich, PD Amading Valdez, PD Abe Pascual, Rtn. Del Lorenzana, and Mr. Ronaldo Ramos (Guest of DIS Anton Mauricio).

Mr. Ajit Sharma received RCM's Plaque of Appreciation from Pres. Jujut Enriquez.

A Tradition That Endures

As the meeting drew to a close, a sense of purpose lingered in the room. Rotary is, after all, more than an organization—it is a movement built on relationships, on commitment, on the unwavering belief that service above self is not just a motto but a way of life.

Pres. Jujut Enriquez adjourned the meeting.

And so, on this Thursday afternoon, within the hallowed halls of the Manila Polo Club, another chapter in the Rotary Club of Manila's storied history was written—not just in minutes recorded, but in minds inspired and hearts moved to action.

For in the end, as Sharma reminded everyone, it is not merely what we do that defines us, but the stories we leave behind.

Uniting for Good Over Coffee: RAC Manila Fellowship at Wildflour

AN afternoon of meaningful conversations brewed at Wildflour Café + Bakery Greenbelt on March 6, 2025 as the Rotaract Club of Manila, represented by President Summer Stephanie Bonifacio, gathered with Rotary Club of Manila Deputy Sergeant-at-Arms/Disease Prevention and Treatment Chair Dr. John Cutter, alongside our sibling club Miles Tolentino from Rotaract Club of De La Salle University, our twin club Asst. Public Image Director Mark Lorenz Nicanor from Rotaract Club of Puerto Princesa and Pilipinas Rotaract Roundtrip participants Rtr. Alexia Spricigo from Brazil and Rtr. Auriane Arnoulin from Canada.

More than just coffee, the fellowship served as a melting pot of diverse cultures, philosophies, and ideas — reflecting the essence of Rotary International President-elect Mario Cesar Martins de Camargo's message: "We unite for good." The dialogue introduced the beauty of Filipino culture while forging stronger global connections through shared values of service, friendship, and understanding.

This simple yet powerful exchange reminds us that Rotaract is more than an organization — it's a global community where friendships are built, ideas are shared, and action sparks lasting impact.
